Ethiopian Teachers Association, in collaboration with Initiative Africa/SIDA is working on project "Responses to violence in everyday life to Advance Democratic Society. The overall objective of the project is identifying responses to violations of human dignity such as social exclusion, violence, intolerance and discrimination and empower young people to develop activities which address the problems and activate decision makers towards school disciplines.

Activities include:
- Conducting Focus Group Study and Data Gathering
- Reducing interpersonal Violence in schools and
- Conducting Talk show program

The project is planned to be completed at the end of December 2009.
The project is intended to improve quality of education by minimizing the existing problems such as missing class attendance, harassment of teachers and female students, cheating exams and associated school violence.
